Based on EPA's involvement with previous activities and proposals on this site, we understand the desire to ensure substantive and specific comments. This extension will allow sufficient time for data collected during your upcoming site visit to be fully considered. We will anticipate your comments on or before March 11, 2016. Should you have any further questions please feel free to contact me.

As we discussed, this is a very complex project with considerable proposed impacts to high value aquatic resources. In order to provide a more substantive review of the public notice a site review with your staff and the project consultant has been scheduled for next week; which is after the current comment period closes.

EPA makes this extension request due to the size, scale and complex history of the project, the extensive information to be reviewed as well as to accommodate the site visit scheduled for next week.
